Hughes Makes Himself Known.

Candidate Charles Evans Hughes announced in Detroit yesterday that he was going to make himself known to the people of the United States. Forthwith he began to do so. The process of making acquaintances proved a most agreeable one, mutually. Mr. Hughes met cheering crowds eager to do him honor and to repose the great trust of the country's honor and safety in him. The people encountered a man of clear views, emphatic declarations and high aspirations.

Mr. Hughes made some very notable utterances. "I have not a particle of militaristic spirit in my system," said he, "but if I am elected president I will see to it that American rights are respected in Mexico." No pulling about service to humanity, but plain assertion of American rights; surely a relief! And again: "The Republican party stands not for a prosperity produced by a sound American principle." No income tax plunder to back up a business wrecking tariff! Once more: "We want America first in the mind and heart of every one in this land." In other words the assimilation and absorption of the hyphen! Finally: "I want efficiency in the government of the United States." The doom of ineptitude spoken.

Mr. Hughes is already pretty well known to the citizens of the United States. His further revelation of himself brings no surprise to it but only a cordial recognition of latent qualities of manhood and patriotism. What was already known, Mr. Hughes' record for twelve years of public life, is the guarantee which the people hold of the sincerity of all that is now disclosed. Everyone knows that the things Mr. Hughes says are not more words.—New York Evening Sun.
